Food Safety and Inspection Service:

Review of FSIS Import Labeling Requirements

Food Safety and Inspection Service:

Labeling - FDA vs. FSIS

- Does not require prior label approval
- No mark of inspection
- Approves the safety of food ingredients used in food products

- Requires prior approval for all labels before the products may be marketed
- Requires inspection legend and establishment number on all inspected and passed products
- Permits only FDA-sanctioned food ingredients in products under its jurisdiction

Food Safety and Inspection Service: Immediate Containers

The immediate container includes any covering that is ordinarily sold to or purchased by a consumer or any other container in which products are directly enclosed

Food Safety and Inspection Service: Immediate Containers

Labels for immediate containers destined for export to the U.S. must have up to nine (9) required features (9 CFR 327.14). All required features must be in English

- FSIS regulations specify where some of these required features must be located on the immediate container:
  - ✓ On the Principal Display Panel (PDP) (9 CFR 317.2(c) and (d))
  - ✓ On the Information Panel (IP) (9 CFR 317.2(m))

Food Safety and Inspection Service: Principal Display Panel (PDP) and Information Panel (IP)

The PDP is the part of the label most likely to be displayed or presented to the purchaser when the product is offered for sale (e.g., sitting in a cooler at a retail store)

The IP is any portion of a label (typically to the right of the PDP) that displays certain mandatory features

Food Safety and Inspection Service:

Food Safety and Inspection Service: Added Solutions

Labeling for raw Siluriformes fish products containing added solutions must include a descriptive designation (e.g., “Contains 10% added solution of water, salt, sodium phosphates....”)

- Product name and descriptive designation must be in one easy-to-read type style, in one color, on a single color contrasting background
- May appear in upper and lower case letters, with lower case letters not smaller than one-third (1/3) size of the largest letter
- Statement must list all ingredients by common or usual name in descending order of predominance
- 9 CFR 317.2(e)(2), 541.7(a)

- Keep Refrigerated
- Keep Frozen

- “Fish” on labels for Siluriformes fish and fish products (exactly as it appears in regulations).
- May appear on any panel

Food Safety and Inspection Service: Shipping Containers - Imports

- Strictly speaking, a shipping container would always contain fully-labeled product inside; thus, there is not a requirement for a shipping container to be labeled with all features
- Shipping containers need to have sufficient space for application of the USDA mark of import inspection
- In some cases, however, the immediate container is the outermost container because the product inside is not labeled. In this scenario, the outermost container needs to bear all the required features of an immediate container and of a shipping container

Food Safety and Inspection Service: Labeling Requirements for Shipping Containers– Imports (9 CFR 327.15)

In English,

1. Name of the country of origin
2. Foreign establishment number of the establishment that packed the shipping container
3. Name of the product
4. Shipping or identification mark (a unique symbol or number used to link the product/lot to the foreign inspection certificate)
5. Handling statement (e.g., Keep refrigerated)(for products that are perishable and require special handling to maintain their wholesomeness)

Food Safety and Inspection Service: Label Approval by FSIS

- Prior approval by FSIS is needed for labels of Siluriformes fish products before they are marketed in the U.S.
- Applies to products produced in a foreign country for export to the U.S.
- Prior label approval is granted in one of two ways:
  - Sketch approval by the FSIS Labeling and Program Delivery Staff (LPDS)
  - Generic approval by being in compliance with applicable labeling regulations

Food Safety and Inspection Service: Label Approval by FSIS

- Only certain types of Siluriformes fish product labeling must be submitted for evaluation by the FSIS Labeling and Program Delivery Staff (9 CFR 541.7(g), 412.1):
  - labels for temporary approval (e.g., change in product formula ingredients listed are no longer in descending order of predominance)
  - labels for products for export from the U.S. with labeling deviations (e.g., nutrition facts panel in a format not permitted on domestic labels )
  - labels with special statements and claims (e.g., “all natural” or “no antibiotics administered”)
- ALL OTHER labels do not require submission to FSIS for prior approval

Food Safety and Inspection Service: Label Approval by FSIS

- Foreign establishments or their representatives must submit labels requiring sketch approval to the FSIS labeling staff
- Applicants are strongly encouraged to submit label applications electronically

Food Safety and Inspection Service: How to Submit Labels for Approval by FSIS

- Web-based: Label Submission and Approval System (LSAS)
- Paper: express mail, mail, courier, or consultant
  - Fax applications are typically illegible and will not be accepted.
  - FSIS cannot accept labels via e-mail

Food Safety and Inspection Service: Electronic System Access Requirements

E-Authentication (Level 2) is required to use Label Submission and Approval System (LSAS)
